

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:
February 18, 2020

HCC to Host Two-Part Climate Change Lecture Series

WELDON, N.C. – On March 10, Halifax Community College (HCC) will be hosting part one of a two-part series of lectures on climate change.

The first speaker is Robert Sokolove. He is a leading expert on the impacts of climate change, speaking at national and international conferences about its impacts on the world and the financial sector. He will be providing valuable information on the impact climate change will have on the economy and the job market, helping area residents better prepare for the careers and challenges of tomorrow.

Part of the Presidential Lecture Series, the Climate Change Series brings in two competing voices on the issue of global warming and climate change – both with opposing viewpoints. The goal is to provide a holistic view of the issue, allowing each individual attendee the opportunity to reach their own unique conclusions.

Part two of the series will take place on Monday, March 16, at 11 a.m. Ret. Brigadier General David Johnson, retired Director of Weather and Deputy Chief of Staff for Air and Space Operations with the United States Air Force.

Halifax Community College's Mission

Halifax Community College strives to meet the diverse needs of our community by providing high-quality, accessible and affordable education and services for a rapidly changing and globally competitive marketplace.

Media Contact: Molly Rushing Wallace, Director of Public Relations and Marketing, mwallace786@halifaxcc.edu, 252-538-4319